

Walk the Walk in Downtown Auburn

By Monika Salvage, Founder and Project Manager

You have seen mosaic installations around town and wondered what they were about? You have driven by Meyer Bookbinding and could have sworn a real person was leaning against the painted door? You have noticed the banner on the city parking garage and couldn't figure out what it depicts? Don't despair! Your answers are only a click away at www.auburnarttrail.com.

I am happy to introduce the Auburn Public Art Trail – a walking tour through Downtown Auburn that highlights over a dozen public art pieces. With grant funding from the Columbian Foundation, the Auburn Downtown BID and I were able to print beautiful maps. Dan Lovell from code_munkeys created a website that features an interactive map, which you can pull up on your handheld device. At each location you have the opportunity to read about or listen to the artists and their stories. This self-guided walking tour gives you another reason to walk and discover Downtown Auburn!
